Dear diary,

Yesterday I finally arrived in England! It is a wonderful place! I am going to travel around England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland and visit famous sights. Right now, I am staying at a lovely B&B (Bed & Breakfast). The landlady, Ms. Harris, is a very nice person, and she loves to talk! Last night, she told me a story about a robbery which had happened to her!

She said that one night she had heard a noise downstairs in the living room, so she phoned the police. Then she quietly walked out of the house through the backdoor and waited for the police in front of the house. An inspector came as fast as he could. He went to the house and looked through the living room window. Inside, he could see a person. It was a small man, and he was making a mess in the room. But Inspector Brown already had an idea!

The police officer explained his plan to Ms. Harris and then he went to the back of the house. There he waited in the garden behind a bush, next to the backdoor of the house. Suddenly Ms. Harris shouted and banged at the front door of her house. "HELP", she called,

"There's a thief in my house. Call the police. HELP!" This shocked the thief. The inspector heard the man running inside. His footsteps came closer to the backdoor and the thief ran out of the house. But in the darkness, he could not see the inspector! Mr. Brown stretched out his leg and the thief fell over it. "Got you!", Inspector Brown called out as he arrested the man.

Dear diary, I don't know if that story is true, but Ms. Harris was very excited when she told it.

I just hope that I will not have such adventures on my trip in the next ten days!
